“ Sweet Miss Cassie was my bus driver and occasional babysitter when I was little. She really did help shape me into who I am today. One of my favorite stories my mom tells me about the time my kindergarten teacher (Mr. Kent) came into the classroom on Paul Revere day riding a stick horse shouting “the British are coming the British are coming!” That afternoon I ran to the bus to tell Miss Cassie that my teacher was yelling “the bitches are coming the bitches are coming!” I can only imagine how that conversation went between Cassie and my mother... I never expressed thanks enough to Miss Cassie and for that I am deeply regretful.
