“ *Whenever I think of Rick an image comes to mind . It's a beautiful summer day & his gang is gathered at Pop's house in west Wildwood,
And there's Rick rocking a black banana hammock with a large leather belt & D buckle. Only he could pull this off .He truly was one of a kind , always put a smile on your face . We'll miss him .

“ First, my sincere condolences to the family. Second, it was only in the past several years that Rick and I were able to really get together and know each other. My absence from the family home made it difficult to be with family, but we did keep in touch and I found so many things in Rick that brought joy to me these past years after my sister's passing, that is his aunt Jenny. I am his only surviving uncle on his father's side and I am saddened by his untimely passing. May his memory live on in his children, Chelsea and Ian, and in his grandson John Michael. RIP, Rick, I am happy that we did have these last few years to talk, to have met, and to have gotten to know each other.

“ If you believe in forever then life is just a one night stand. If there's a rock and roll heaven then you know they have a hell of a band.

“ I first met Rick when we were both attending Lasalle in 1972. Of course we met in the music room. Before long we had formed a band and we were off and running. He was in my wedding a year or so later. The band only lasted a couple of years but my friendship with Rick lasted 50 years. We wouldn't see each other for long stretches of time but when we did we would always talk about the good old days. He had a kind heart. May he rest in peace.
